

After progressing past the Sentiment CAPTCHA, the user will be required to repeat a randomly generated phrase. If the computer hears the phrase correctly, the user will be verified and can proceed. If not the user will need to repeat the computer's phrases until they answer correctly.

The Movement CAPTCHA activates the user's webcam and identifies the user's wrist. Using their wrist, the user is required to drag the blue circle into the red circle. Each time the user complete the task, the circles reset to a random position. The user is requires to complete this 5 times in order to prove their human.

Once the user has completed all 3 CAPTCHAs they will be able to access the website and claim the key. The user will have come across the padlocked folder at this stage and the purpose of the key will be clear.

Clicking on the key acts as a link to an identical page. The only change being that the key is gone and the key image has been assigned to the cursor - giving the impression that the user has 'picked it up'.
